Bonfire celebrations in Columbia

Dare to be different and head to Columbia to run barefoot on untouched sands into the warm Caribbean sea with the snow-capped Sierra Nevada mountain as a fabulous backdrop – Playa Koralia is located on virgin shoreline in Columbia and is an idyllic romantic wedding and honeymoon destination, offering a unique atmosphere and complete privacy. Wedding ceremonies start at dusk in the wedding chapel – a bamboo temple decorated with exotic local flowers, palms and white lace. Guests sit under white decorated tents lit with candles and torches, while the rattan aisle is covered with petals. After the ceremony grand ceremonial bonfires are lit along the beach and guests gather at the beach bar to toast the happy couple. As night falls the wedding party head along a torch-lit path to a marquee in the gardens for dinner. During dessert, the Tambora musicians play their magical flutes and drums signal time to move back to the beach bar. Local Colombian dancers then make their entrance, enticing the guests to join the dancing around the huge bonfires for a truly festive celebration
