

KENSINGTON & CHELSEA

NOVEMBER 2012 • ISSUE 009 • £3.60

MAGAZINE

Palace OF ART

LEIGHTON HOUSE: HOLLAND PARK'S MAGNIFICENT MUSEUM

Playing THE DAME

DAME JUDI DENCH ON BOND & BRITISH THEATRE

WHITE SHORES ARE CALLING: Nature's Finest

Playa Koralia on the Caribbean coast of Columbia is a tropical paradise, completely in harmony with the stunning natural habitat that surrounds it

PLAYA KORALIA DESCRIBES itself as a "nature hotel" and when confronted with the surrounding, breathtaking scenery, it is easy to see why the hotel drew inspiration from its environment. The beaches that embrace the hotel are flawless, with the white sands stretching out as far as the eye can see and the snow-capped Sierra Nevada Mountain, which looms dramatically above, is not only an astonishing spectacle but also provides shelter for the coast, as well as guaranteeing a year-round pleasant climate.

The colourful cabañas have been designed using local art and materials, meaning that the buildings blend seamlessly into their environment. The hammocks outside could not be a better place to while away a few lazy hours. For ultimate relaxation, a visit to the Koralia Spa for a traditional healing treatment is an absolute must. Those who get a little restless can enjoy a number of guided excursions to destinations including the nearby waterfalls or Tayrona National Park. After drinking in the incredible surroundings, the perfect way to finish the day is by enjoying a cocktail at the beach bar as the sun slowly sets. ■

www.koralia.com

